

Weaving the Fabric of Life in Chinchero, Peru & Machu Picchu, Sacred City of the Incas August 30 - September 12, 2006 $2250

Earth, Rain, Sustenance, Ancestry . . .

Threads come together in intricate designs, weaving nature, stories, families, culture, and life itself.

We'll spend 4 days with a family of master weavers in Chinchero, a Quechua village in the Peruvian Andes! Shearing sheep, dying wool with plant dyes, spinning with drop spindles, and learning to weave in the traditional way, all interwoven with stories of connection—this trip will lead us to our own center through sharing an ancient way of life, communication, and artistry. We'll also experience Machu Picchu and other ancient sacred sites, and will finish our trip in beautiful Cusco, the center of the Incan World.

INCLUDES: Accommodations in comfortable hotels, all breakfasts, round-trip airfare within Peru, transportation by private van, local bus, and train, four days of weaving and weaving supplies, lunch when we are weaving, entry fees to Machu Picchu and sites in the Sacred Valley and Cusco area, tour of Machu Picchu, museum visit in Lima.

DOES NOT INCLUDE: International airfare, meals not listed above, airport departure taxes, tips, bottled water, personal purchases.
